

Living in Utopia with an Own Consciousness

A cold blast blows in from ~~the~~ a broken window to awake Charles sleeping on ~~the~~ a shabby wood~~en~~ bed. He still has some unwillingness to get off the bed. Not necessary. Better delete this sentence "Oh. . . It is about time to work." And then Unnecessary. Better deleted. he grabs a piece of toast and a canned coffee, which the government distributed to walk through a crowded street into a building what kind of building? Better some descriptive words here. He is seated on a ruined chair say more about the chair and enjoys his breakfast consisting of what?. Suddenly, " Ding, Ding, Ding." A lot of files are falling from an iron tube what kind of tube?. It means that everyone has to start yielding yielding what?. Charles wears "puts on"? his reading glasses, ~~watches~~ reads the words ~~of~~ on the paper, and guides his subordinates, "This sentence should be deleted." "~~There~~ They had better use some other words." That is his job, "Revising a nation's history." Essentially why "Essentially"? after eating lunch so "breakfast" is over and you are now speaking of "lunch"? Charles has free time to do what he wants to ~~do~~. However, he can not leave the office until five o'clock. By the way, many cameras, called ~~a~~ party's messenger~~s~~, are installed in the building to oversee people working and convey the governor's information to whom?. Interestinglywhy "Interestingly"? there ~~has~~ is a messy chamber ~~where~~ which only a person, Charles, can access. He squeezes his body into a tiny corner, takes a jotter from his pocket, as always, and writes down the sentences. I desire to have freedom, democracy, and so on.

The writing is basically pretty good, although you should have made clear lots of things.

Some minor mistakes.